

Mobility Bill of Rights

Whereas, active transportation includes a range of transportation modes of travel and the public's right to use those modes is formally articulated and supported in the California Vehicle Code: and

Whereas, pedestrians and cyclists are considered to be the “indicator species” of a healthy community: and

Whereas, communities that embrace the full range of transportation options demonstrate a commitment to environmental, equity, and traffic congestion solutions: and

Whereas, all those who travel on the sidewalks and streets are, first and foremost, people, deserving of the full support of our electeds, appointed, departments, commissions, agencies, and authorities as they conduct their lives in the public space: and

NOW, THEREFORE, WE THE ACTIVE TRANSPORTATION COMMUNITY,
do hereby claim the following rights:

1. People have the right to travel safely and free of fear.
2. People have the right to fair access.
3. People have the right to the full support of educated law enforcement.
4. People have the right to the full support of our judicial system.
5. People have the right to routine accommodations in all roadway projects.
6. People have the right to full consideration in all roadway development.
7. People have the right to effective signage, signals, and maintenance standards.
8. People have the right to be actively engaged as a constituent group.
9. People have the right to roadway planning based science, data, industry innovations, and emerging technologies.
10. People have the right to be treated fairly and equitably.

And further, we claim and assert these rights by embracing the public space of our communities and proclaiming that “Streets are for People!”
